GENERAL TOPOGRAPHICAL INDEX.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY, WILLIAM HUMBLE, EARL OF DUDLEY,

&c., &c., &c.,

Lord Lieutenant General and General Governor of Ireland

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY—

I have the honour to submit to Your Excellency the General Index to the Topographical Divisions of Ireland, which has been prepared in connection with the Census of 1901.

The first General Index to the Irish Topographical Divisions, based on the Census of 1851, was issued by my predecessor, the late Mr. William Donnelly, C.B., in December 1861. A second Index, based on the Census of 1871, was issued in May, 1877, by the late Dr. Burke, Registrar General.

The following changes have been made in the present Index, as compared with that issued in connection with the Census of 1871 —

- (a) In the Townland, Parish, Barony, and District Electoral Division (formerly Poor Law Electoral Division) Indexes, the "County District" created under the Local Government (Ireland) Act, 1898, has been substituted for the "Poor Law Union," which latter, however, is in all cases ascertainable from the Index (see note at head of page 1), and the Index Number of the District Electoral Division in the Census County Books is given instead of the Volume and Page of the Census Publications.
- (b) In the District Electoral Division Index (substituted for the Poor Law Electoral Division Index), a column has been added for the County Electoral Division.
- (c) The Index to the Petty Sessions Districts, for which areas statistics are not now published, has been omitted.
- (d) Indexes to the County Districts and County Electoral Divisions, constituted under the Local Government (Ireland) Act, 1898, have been added.

As, under the Boundary Survey Acts, 1854, 1857, and 1859, provision is made for the revision of the Boundaries of Townlands, Parishes, and other Divisions of Land, changes may be made in the areas of these denominations from time to time.

The Townlands, as shown in this Volume, represent these denominations and their areas as they stood on 31st March, 1901. In the case of the County of Galway, however, the Areas shown are those in use prior to the last survey by the Ordnance Survey Department, the information regarding the revised Areas not being available before the despatch of the MS. to the printer. The revised Areas will be found in the Census Book for the County.

Pursuant to the Ordnance Map (Adjustment of Boundaries) Order, 1899, of His Majesty's Privy Council in Ireland, the Parish Boundaries will not in future be shown on the Ordnance Maps when revised, except in County Boroughs and Urban Districts.

In future, also, Townlands of the same name, which formerly appeared separately though divided only by a Parish Boundary, and which are given in this Volume as separate Townlands, will be shown on the new Survey Maps as one Townland.

I have the honour to be

Your Excellency's very faithful servant,

ROBERT E. MATHESON,

Registrar General.

INTRODUCTION.

In issuing the General Topographical Index which has been compiled in connection with the Census of 1901, it appears desirable that a short sketch should be given of the history of the territorial divisions with which the Index deals.

The principal territorial divisions at present in use in Ireland are Townlands, Parishes, Baronies, Counties and Provinces, and the more recent divisions for Local Government and Poor Law purposes, viz. :— District Electoral Divisions, Dispensary (or Registrars') Districts, County Districts (Urban and Rural), and Poor Law Unions (or Superintendent Registrars' Districts).

Territorial Divisions now in use.

The Townlands and Baronies, which varied in different Provinces, are the most ancient divisions, and they existed under other names prior to the introduction of Christianity.

Townlands and Baronies.

The Barony or Tricosa cead consisted of Ballybetaghs or Townlands, Ploughlands, Seisreaghs or Carrows, Tates or Ballyboes, Sessinghs, Gneeves and Acres.

The following is a Table showing these divisions :—

|                 |   |                                    |
|-----------------|---|------------------------------------|
| 10 Acres        | = | 1 Gneev.                           |
| 2 Gneeves       | = | 1 Sessingh.                        |
| 3 Sessinghs     | = | 1 Tate or Ballyboe.                |
| 2 Ballyboes     | = | 1 Ploughland, Seisreagh or Carrow. |
| 4 Ploughlands   | = | 1 Ballybetagh or Townland.         |
| 30 Ballybetaghs | = | 1 Tricosa cead or Barony.          |

At the Census of 1821, in addition to the Barony and Townland, the Gneev and the Ploughland were the only areas given in the above list which were noted by the Enumerators as then existing.

In the Ordnance Maps all names of smaller sub-divisions were discarded, and the term townland applied to every such denomination whether great or small. In accordance with the Act 6, Geo. IV, cap. 99, the boundaries of the townlands laid down on the Ordnance Maps were shown by the local government, guided by the then existing usage in collecting the Grand Jury rates and cess, and consequently the boundaries laid down on the Maps frequently do not coincide with those of earlier denominations.

Townlands.

There were 60,462 Townlands in Ireland at the date of the Census of 1901, and the present Index shows the County, Barony, Parish, County District, and District Electoral Division in which each of these Townlands is situated, together with a number facilitating reference to the particular portion of the Census County Book for 1901, in which the Area, number of Houses, Population, and Valuation will be found.

Baronies.

The Baronies, which are of great antiquity as family possessions, were originally feudal and military jurisdictions, but came in course of time to be used for fiscal and administrative purposes only.

When they were constituted into public civil divisions by the English, they were in many cases named after towns, villages, or castles, and these names possess much historic interest. In some cases they gave titles to the settlers, as Athenry, which gave title to the Berminghams, Offaly to the Fitzgeralds, Kinsale to the De Courcies, and Delvin to the Nugents. In other cases the name of the Sept or tribe was retained, for example, Boylagh (O'Boyle's Country), Inishowen (Owen's Island), Clankelly (the tribe or Clan of O'Kelly). There were, at the time of the last Census, 327 Baronies, varying in extent from 310,386 to 1,693 acres.

Parishes.

Originally an ecclesiastical division, the Parish was, until comparatively recent times, an area for civil purposes. It generally bore the name of the Townland in which the church was built, but in some cases, such as Donaghmore, "the great church," the designation of the building gave the name to the Townland and afterwards to the Parish. The ecclesiastical Parish differed in many cases from the civil Parish, alterations having been from time to time made by the Privy Council.

In 1901 the Civil Parishes in Ireland numbered 2,428, ranging in extent from 200,960 to under 2 acres. As stated in the letter submitting this work, Parish names will in future be omitted from the Ordnance Maps, but to facilitate reference an Index to the Parishes is included in this Volume.

Counties.

The division into Counties, on the model of the English system, was introduced gradually by the English settlers, but the division was not extended to the entire island until after its complete annexation to the British Crown. The counties proper number 32, and of these twelve were constituted by King John in the year 1210, viz.:—Dublin, Kildare, Meath (subsequently divided into East and West Meath), Louth, Carlow, Kilkenny, Wexford, Waterford, Cork, Kerry, Limerick and Tipperary.

King's and Queen's Counties were constituted in the reign of Queen Mary.

The following Counties were formed in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, viz.:—Longford, Clare, Galway, Sligo, Mayo, Roscommon, Leitrim, Armagh, Monaghan, Tyrone, Coleraine, now (though with slight alterations) Londonderry, Donegal, Fermanagh and Cavan.

The origin of Antrim and Down is uncertain, and the last County formed was Wicklow, which was separated from Dublin, and constituted a distinct County in 1605.

Alterations in the boundaries of several Counties have recently been made under the provisions of the Local Government (Ireland) Act, 1898, and it is according to the Counties, as thus altered, that the statistics in connection with the Census of 1901 have been compiled, and the references in the Indexes in this Volume are given.

Provinces.

At the time of the English invasion, Ireland was divided into five Kingdoms viz.:—Leinster, Meath, Munster, Ulster and Connaught. After this invasion the division of the country into four provinces was adopted, the ancient boundaries and names being retained, except that the Kingdom of Meath, (which consisted of the present counties of Meath and Westmeath) became merged in the Province of Leinster.

The civic jurisdictions known as Counties of Cities and Counties of Towns consisted of Dublin, Cork, Waterford, Limerick, Kilkenny, Galway, Carrickfergus, and Drogheda. Under the Act 3 and 4 Vic. Cap. 109, these Cities and Towns were contracted within their corporate limits and for administrative purposes under the Local Government (Ireland) Act, 1898, the last named four now form part of adjoining Counties. Dublin, Cork, Limerick and Waterford are now County Boroughs under that Act, as also are the Cities of Belfast and Londonderry, and all six are dealt with as such in the Indexes.

Counties of Cities and Towns.

The Parliamentary Boroughs, formerly much more numerous, were, in 1901, nine in number, viz.:—Belfast, Cork, Dublin, Galway, Kilkenny, Limerick, Londonderry, Newry and Waterford. Owing to their constitutional importance, these Boroughs are shown in a separate Index; their boundaries, which in all cases, except Londonderry, differ from those of the Towns of the same name, being delineated on the Ordnance Survey Maps.

Parliamentary Boroughs.

Under the Local Government (Ireland) Act, 1898, the Poor Law areas were adopted as the basis for administrative purposes. Indexes are given for each of the circumscriptions under this arrangement including Poor Law Unions, Dispensary or Registration Districts, and District Electoral Divisions.

Poor Law
Areas.

The Poor Law Unions which originally numbered 130, were increased to 163 in 1857. The number in 1901 was 159. They are multiples of Townlands, District Electoral Divisions, and Dispensary Districts, and are coterminous with the Superintendent Registrars' Districts under the Marriages, Births and Deaths Registration Acts. They range in extent from 41,205 to 347,820 statute acres; 113 were, in 1901, situated wholly in one county, 38 in two, while 8 extended into three counties.

Poor Law Unions.

The Dispensary Districts, created under the provisions of the Medical Charities Act, 14 and 15 Vic., Cap. 68, consist of groups of District Electoral Divisions, and are, as a rule, coterminous with the Registrars' Districts which, at the date of the last Census, numbered 829.

Dispensary and Registrars'
Districts.

The District Electoral Divisions, formerly called Poor Law Electoral Divisions, amounted in 1901 to 3,751. They were originally formed under 1 and 2 Vic. Cap. 56, and consist of groups of Townlands.

District Electoral Divisions.

The County Districts, the names of which appear in column 7 of the Index to the Townlands and Towns, were formed under the Local Government (Ireland) Act, 1898. They consist of groups of District Electoral Divisions, and are of two classes, viz.:—Urban and Rural, each District having a separate Council.
